This week

There is no official program today. We will be finalizing plans for the Installation tonight. Sounds like one of our more interesting programs.

Next week

No announcement yet. It looks like Lion 1VP Will BERG is running out of friends to invite to speak. Good thing he's getting rid of this gig soon.

Last week

Dr. Dan Murphy, a retired neurosurgeon who loved cars and always wanted a car museum, finally got his wish — and he came to us to talk about it. He even brought his 1937 Packard. If you like old cars, this was a treat.

Ramblings from Ross

As of 10:36 AM Lion P Ross OLNEY has not bothered to send your BE anything for his column. It would appear that he has also decided to coast to the finish line.

Winners

Lion D Pat RIGGS has Free Fines today, while Lion Byron WEDEMEYER is our Greeter. Lion C Andy STAY was here and collected his $5 Attendance Prize. Lion T/BE Toby SCOTT was here also, so if he manages to show up today, he'll collect a like sum. If you are reading this at the meeting, he showed up. Lion D Dave TAPIE attempted to grab the $735 Mad Marble Malarkey Prize but blue it.

Installation

OK boys and girls, this is it. The giganticist, splendiferic, wonderfulest and fantasticest event of the millennium. We will have live cowboy music, tons of booze, great food and some of the silliest entertainment in history. Let's have fun.

We probably need to spend a bit of time at today's meeting preparing for some of the "entertainment" tonight. It'll still be bad, but maybe a bit less bad.

Congratulations or condolences

Lion S/RC Rick SMITH managed the impossible. Dressed as a Chumash Indian (see picture) at the 4-A3 Convention, he managed to get his wife, Mary, pregnant. Your intrepid BE interviewed the happy couple immediately after they found out. Mary said, "It is such a thrill. We have been trying for a long time." Lion Rick said, "Huh. Doh. I dunno." The baby is due in January.

Too bad Lion Karl DAME isn't still hosting the Bored meetings. He could have baby poop all over his house. It would be an improvement over dog poop.
