Lion LT Dick MAGGIO emailed your BE last Friday that someone was coming to speak on the problem of beach erosion at Channel Islands Harbor. He didn't attend last week's meeting and hasn't responded to voice-mail request for more information.

If you are the speaker today, please understand that we are Noontimers, which if you look it up on Wikipedia you will find is a synonym for "disorganized." We sincerely apologize for not getting the details right, but we aren't likely to change much.

And, of course, if we have no program, your BE has whiffed so badly that his bat went into the third row.

It is apparently open.

Last Week

It was open.

Winners

Lion TT Jim PLISKY has free fines. What luck. The TT can't be fined anyway. Knowing Lion Jim, he'll probably drop a few bucks in the bucket anyway. Lion C Andy STAY is our Greeter. Pray for his back while he tries to greet us all. Lion Chris PACHANA had his number called for the $30 Attendance drawing, but he hasn't been here in living memory. Anyone remember what he looks like? In the Mad Marble Malarkey, Lion Ryan ALTOFF attempted to swoop into just this one meeting and grab the Mad Marble Malarkey prize by buying a jillion tickets. His ticket was called, but his luck ran out when he couldn't find the right marble and lost his shot at $150.50

Banana Festival

Lion D George THOMPSON is in charge of our Banana Festival planning. He is planning on us taking pictures, printing them and selling them to attendees. It worked out well last year, but it needs a lot of manpower.

So, please set aside September 28 so you can help out. Put it on your calendar at home so your wife or insignificant other doesn't schedule a vacation at the wrong time.
